

“A View From The Hill”

a poem inspired by Suzanne Sheldon’s painting, Parkers Creek - At the End of the Horse Swamp Trail
by Donald James Pitts.

The river snakes in a water path.

The trees are barrier to the hill.

Some trees have fallen.

Ready for a deer to jump over it.

Leaves carpet the forest floor.

The tree line sloops up and down.

The clouds are white wisps of their former self.

In a blue sky.
